

The Ecological Pirate

Once upon a time there was a pirate who was very sad because his ship was sailing on very dirty seas...

I sailed and sailed day and night and I was not able to finish with all the dirt that was in the sea. It's impossible! I can't alone! -the pirate shouted desperately wishing that someone would accompany him on his adventure of cleaning the oceans-

The pirate had lost hope of finding help, when suddenly... he met some young people on the shore who were cleaning the beach. He approached them and said: What are you doing? And the young people replied -clean the beach but we need a boat to be able to continue cleaning the seas of garbage-

The pirate delighted with the response of the young women said to them: Get on my boat! Together we will end the dirt... and indeed... some time later the seas were clean and empty of garbage.

